GENERAL NEWS.

New York Agitated Over Imporiation of of Hawaiian Sugar.

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG MARRIES AND STARTS FOR CHINA.

An Elopement Extraordinary Occurs in St. Louis High Life.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, April 24.—Collector Robertson has ordered careful investigation in regard to recent importations of sugar. It has been represented to the collector that certain parties, whose names are withheld for the present, have been evading paying duty by bringing sugar from the East Indies to the United States via the Hawaiian islands. After being taken to the Hawaiian islands in a raw state, the sugar is put through the centrifugal process, then it is shipped to San Francisco where it is entered as an Hawaiian product. From San Francisco it is sent direct to New York importers, thus evading a duty of three cents per pound, which they would be required to pay if importations were made direct from the East Indies. The matter is causing much excitement among the sugar importers and refiners of this city. The secretary of the treasury at Washington has stated that he is in doubt as to whether this method of importing sugar in the roundabout way above described is illegal or not. As soon as he has ascertained all of the facts and arrived at a decision, he will make an official ruling in the matter.

A Whisky Ring Formed.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Herald hints at the formation of a gigantic whisky ring and reports that Kentucky speculators are in the scheme. It says an enormous quantity of distilled spirits are now in bond, nearly a gallon and a half for every man, woman and child in the United States, including Chinese and Indians. This fact shows the magnitude of the game the ring is playing. Happily for the measure the bill concerning distilled spirits in bond remains open to debate in the senate, and we trust the report we print will insure a thorough investigation of it.

Will go to China Fully Equipped.

Hon. John Russell Young, minister to China, was presented with a set of congratulatory resolutions by a committee of the New York press club to-day. Mr. Young will be married at Hartford to-morrow and leave at once for the Pacific Coast.

Storm at Selma.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Times, Selma, Alabama: On Saturday night points east and south of here for a distance of from 14 to 20 miles, were visited by a combined wind and rain storm that in fierceness surpassed any similar occurrence there. The cyclone proper lasted only five minutes and ranged over a track about 12 miles in length and a quarter to a half a mile in breadth. Everywhere in its course houses were blown literally to pieces, fences torn down and immense forest trees twisted from their trunks and carried away. Several brick houses were blown off smooth with the ground, and brick and mortar found hundreds of yards off. Five lives were lost, and when complete returns are in it is thought the death list will at least be doubled. At Dr. J. H. Wheedon's plantation near King's Landing, every tree, bush, fence and house on the plantation was swept clean off the face of the earth. The doctor and his wife and family and all other whites on the plantation escaped with only a few bruises. Two negro women and one boy were killed outright, two women are expected to die, and two children were painfully hurt. One woman was pierced through and through by a piece of splintered plank. The jagged lance entered from the rear and passed directly through her body. There is great damage to property at other plantations and three lives are lost.

The Monticello Death Rate.

JACKSON, Miss., April 25.—Latest reports from Monticello put the death list from the cyclone at 15, and wounded 20, many of whom will die.

Steamer Burned in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, April 25.—The steamer City of Sanford, on the way here from Sanford, took fire about 4 this morning and nine persons probably perished. The names of those actually known to be dead are: Mrs. Oscar Keep and child, of Jacksonville; Mrs. Ireland and daughter, of Como; Mrs. E. P. Dowder, of Norwalk, Fla.; Capt. S. A. Artisle, of the schooner Magnolia, recently lost off Mosquito inlet bar; Chas. Pierce and a nephew, Willie Brooks, a son of the pilot of the ill-fated steamer, Dorsey Shopper, and Dr. Hard. The steamer Bird, coming down the river a few miles ahead of the Sanford, put back and brought the survivors here. The steamer and contents are a total loss, and nothing whatever was saved.

Fire at Eau Claire.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., April 25.—Sixty-three buildings were burned here to-day and to-night, causing a loss estimated at from $260,000 to $270,000, on which the insurance is probably not one half. It began at 3 P. M. in the rear of the Pioneer block and destroyed most of the business part of the west side, including four solid blocks of buildings besides many others. Losses are small to individuals and none running over $10,000, but there are a large number of them. The fire was under control at 2 A. M.

Smallpox Scare at Joliet.

JOLIET, Ill., April 24.—A semi-panic has been prevalent here since Friday because of the rapid spread of smallpox, which has been brought from Chicago by the son of a German gunsmith and through imprudence of the family given to numerous others. Twenty-seven cases are reported already and vigorous measures have been taken to check the disease. Schools and churches are closed and the board of health enlarged. Vaccination has been made compulsory and another ward added to the hospital. Cases have been isolated, special police detailed and infected houses cleaned thoroughly. The board of health of the state is in sympathy with the measures taken.

Quarreling over the Chinese Question.

CHICAGO, April 24.—A large anti-Chinese meeting was held yesterday at Greenbaum's Hall. Wm. Paterson and Wm. Lewis were the speakers, and resolutions denouncing Mayor Harrison were adopted, because he had stifled free speech while presiding at a former meeting.

Not Fully Reformed.

John J. Flynn, recently appointed consul to Chemnitz, who disgraced himself by drunkenness, so that the German government refused to recognize him, was for years a resident of this city and well known elsewhere. For six years his habits had been exemplary, although before that he had been an inmate for a long time of an inebriate's reformatory. He was supposed to have been fully reformed and much regret is expressed at his deplorable condition.

An Elopement Extraordinary.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—A sensational elopement is reported of John G. Curtis, 37 years old, son of a former big clothier, and Mrs. Jennie Dixon, wife of a traveller for Lorillard's of Kentucky. She left behind three small children, and a shocked and mortified lot of relatives. Her husband is in New Mexico or Colorado. The truants are supposed to have gone to Chicago.

Forgers Arrested.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Grant Reynolds and Henry Chait, who with seven others broke jail in Detroit in March, were arrested here to-day. They were awaiting trial in Detroit on a charge of passing forged checks on the bank there. The police say they are experts.

Held for Libel.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—A correspondent of the New York Herald was held in $10,000 bonds on a charge of libel, in publishing Manthrop's statement that Senator McPherson was interested in the Peruvian Company to-day.

Sargent's Movements.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., April 24.—Ex-Senator Sargent, minister to Berlin, leaves for Lowell to-day, and from Lowell goes to New York.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Some Land Grant Figures.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Times' Washington: Assistant Lowe, clerk of the general land office, makes an interesting statement about the manner in which land grant railroads have been treated by the interior department. The Cedar Rapids and Missouri River railroad is one of the completed roads under grants available for its construction. The grant was six sections per mile or 1,042,944 acres; but the amount of land actually certified and patented under the grant was 1,1[illegible]4,690 acres, or 98,746 acres more than the greatest possible amount that could rightfully be embraced in the grant for 501.6 miles of road. The Sioux City and St. Paul road of Iowa was entitled to 359,520 acres at the utmost, but 407,010 acres have been certified and patented to it. The St. Paul and Sioux City road of Minnesota was entitled to 85,000 acres, but has received 120,338. The St. Paul & Pacific road in Minnesota has also received an excess of the maximum area of its grant. The area given to the Iowa Falls and Sioux City road in Iowa is 25,000 acres in excess of its maximum grant. The Winona & St. Peters company is credited with a nominal area of 1,410,000 acres, and it was estimated that the actual area to which it was entitled was 710,000 acres. The correspondent gives a large number of other instances where roads, particularly in the south, have been given much more land than entitled to, and shows the loose method in which the land office has carried on its business, and the great disadvantage to settlers.

The Utah Commission.

The president is looking about and exercising a great deal of care in selecting who shall compose the Utah commission. That ex-Senator Paddock has been agreed upon as one member that shall compose it there is said to be little doubt. He has been in New York lately and at first refused to accept, but finally, after reconsidering, consented his name might be used. It was intended that ex-Secretary Kirkwood should be placed on the Utah commission, but Senator Paddock's selection will result in the former's appointment as western representative upon the tariff commission, which place he much preferred. Miss Phebe Cozzens, of St. Louis, is bringing every possible influence to bear whereby she may represent the government in adjustment of the Mormon question, and has urged the Missouri delegation to assist her. Senators Cockrell and Vest are agreeable and have so indicated, but others, while willing to do all in their power to assist Miss Cozzens, do not believe that the appointment can be obtained by her from the fact that it would be a recognition of woman suffrage by the president.

The Chinese Question.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Senator Miller thinks to-night that the Mississippi bill will not occupy the time of the senate more than an hour or two to-morrow, and if it is disposed of, he will urge immediate consideration of the Chinese bill and hopes to get it fairly under way before adjournment to-morrow.

Representative Washburne, of Minnesota, presented to-day in the house a petition signed by workingmen protesting against the importation of Chinese.

Congressional Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The senate pueblo lands committee this morning agreed to report favorably a bill to create another land district in Dakota, and also agreed to report favorably the nomination of Geo. B. Armstrong for register of lands at Dakota, Nebraska.

Secretary Folger's letter in opposition to the Carlisle bill was laid before the senate finance committee this morning and [illegible] discussed, but no action taken, and the committee adjourned.

Senator [illegible] to-day introduced resolutions instructing the judiciary committee to report what legislation was necessary to prevent such excessive damages as [illegible] Kilbourn obtained.

It is probable that a whole week will be spent over election cases, and perhaps longer, as the democrats are determined to fight them to the bitter end. They say they never will consent to see a colored man take the chair of Chalmers if they can help it.

In the senate to-day resolutions of the union league of New York, approving the veto of the Chinese bill, were presented by Lapham.

Argument to be had May 8th.

The supreme court in banc has decided to hear argument on the Guiteau bill May 8th. A portion of Scoville's letter announcing withdrawal from the case was read.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

An Eventful Week.

LONDON, April 22.—Next week is expected to be of great parliamentary interest. On Monday Mr. Gladstone will introduce the budget, the chief feature of which is believed to be an alteration in the wine and spirit duties. In the present state of the revenue no startling surprises are possible, but unusual interest is expected by the fact that this is known to be Mr. Gladstone's last budget. Tuesday the government will announce its decision regarding changes in the land act. These may prove of some importance, as the ministry have been placed in an awkward dilemma by the conservative policy, and must change front or be beaten. Their failure is universally acknowledged and the coercion policy has made them subjects of ridicule everywhere. The total number of [illegible] suspects have been imprisoned in [illegible], and yet Forster figures that the country is in greater disorder than ever. The third question pending is the cloture which rises Thursday or Friday. The government has cut out a busy week and it is not unlikely all its plans will be upset by the Irish members who are getting exasperated at the continued detention of suspects. There seems to be good authority, by the way, for stating the American suspects will be released on the assurance that they will leave the country. In fact this is open to all suspects but Parnell and the others who refuse to accept such a condition. If the Americans also refuse the government will scarcely know how to act.

Features of the Ministerial Programme.

The Standard says: The speedy release of American suspects on terms that may involve the recall of Lowell, gradually release all political suspects and treat those detained upon suspicion of complicity in outrages, the substitution of the summary jurisdiction vested in magistrates, and amendment of the arrears and purchase clauses of the land act, are the principal features of the ministerial programme.

The American Suspects.

LONDON, April 24.—The Daily News says one of the suspects claiming American nationality refuses the offer of release. He came to Ireland with the express object of raising an international question. The other American suspects, having undertaken to quit the country, will be released. The Telegraph says it has reason to believe that no decision has been arrived at in regard to American suspects.

Suspects to Leave the Country.

LONDON, April 23.—The Observer says there is reason to believe before the end of this week all American suspects imprisoned will have left the country.

Dorris Released.

DUBLIN, April 24.—Dorris, late assistant secretary of the land league, has been released from Dundalk jail. He was informed that his movements would be strictly watched and he would be arrested if he did not behave himself properly.

Parnell Missing.

LONDON, April 24.—Up to this evening Parnell has not reached Kilmainham jail, nor arrived at Dublin. Police traced him to Holyhead Sunday, but subsequently lost sight of him.

Parnell Arrives at Dublin.

DUBLIN, April 25.—Parnell arrived this evening. He was much cheered at the depot, but avoided an ovation as far as possible and took a cab and was driven direct to Kilmainham jail.

Darwin's Death.

LONDON, April 25.—Darwin's death has brought out a series of tributes, English and continental, to him as the foremost modern man of science. The unanimity thus far is unbroken by ecclesiastical comment.

London Theatrical Notes.

The performance of "Patience" on Monday at the Savoy theater, begins the second year of continuous representation under Mr. Sullivan's conduct.

An explosion last night at the Court theater caused great alarm. A panic was avoided by the coolness of the Prince of Wales, who ordered his own party to sit still, and signaled the rest of the house to preserve order. It was soon discovered that there was no danger.

The Jewish Outrages to be Atoned for.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 23.—The Golos says: In consequence of the recent report of the minister of justice, the emperor has ordered the trials of all persons accused of outrages against Jews to be treated as urgent and be taken up without regard to their order on the list.

Suit against Ex-Empress Eugenie.

MARSEILLES, April 23.—A suit was opened Saturday by the corporation of Marseilles against ex-Empress Eugenie to compel her to relinquish the imperial chateau, presented under the empire to the emperor by the municipality, which according to the mayor now belongs to the town.

NEW MEXICO.

Indian War Notes.

LORDSBURG, New Mexico, April 24.—A fight occurred yesterday afternoon at Horse Shoe canyon, between Indians and Indian scouts and troops. The latter were victorious. Four Indian scouts were killed and three soldiers, and four soldiers wounded. Small bands of hostiles are seen going south over the San Simon flat. A band of 20 or 30 crossed the Southern Pacific track near here early this morning going north towards Burro mountains. McDonald, a well known prospector in this section, arrived from Gila river this morning. He assisted in burying the bodies of 20 men yesterday, and reports several persons missing. Among the killed are John P. Risque, a rising young attorney of Silver City, Capt. John W. Slawson, mining superintendent, Mr. Trescott, Alexander Knox, S. D. Pinkard and Pinkard's herdman, name unknown. The Indians number over 200 bucks, squaws and children as shown by actual count, while passing York's ranche. The Indians are completely surrounded and corralled in Doubtful canyon. Those seen on San Simon flat last evening were evidently stragglers. All the inhabitants of Leitendorf, Shakespeare and Lordsburg are under arms.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER BAR.

Mr. Knapp's Plan for Improving the Channel.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

To answer inquiries concerning the plan or scheme of Mr. Henry F. Knapp for improving the channel at the mouth of the Columbia river, and on account of the general interest in this subject, space is asked in your columns for the following: Mr. Knapp reasons that sea bars are the results of two antagonistic forces, viz.: the mechanical action of sea waves and the eroding force of out-flowing currents. The waves heave sand into the harbor mouth, forming the bar across it; the erosion of outward current cuts down the complete bar, which would otherwise be formed and gives the natural channel.

Mr. Knapp proposes to reduce or modify the wave action, and thus permit the better development of the scouring power of the harbor or river current. This modification he expects to obtain by constructing, in advance of the bar a stone wall, generally curved in plan, and having on it a depth of water approximately double that required for the improved channel. The projector states that part of the total force of wave action will be transferred to and expended upon the artificial bar, thus relieving the natural bar; and that the littoral current will prevent sand-filling on the outer face of the wall. To direct the action of the littoral current to the inner face, Mr. Knapp leaves open spaces between the flanks of his submerged curved stone wall and the shore for the passage of this current.

In 1880 Mr. Knapp offered to create a permanently deep, wide and straight channel through the Sandy Hook bar of the port of New York. His wall was to extend partly across the entrance in deep water; outside the bar, the top varying from 40 to 7 feet below mean low water. The plan of the structure was a circular arc 5 miles and 950 yards long, described with a radius of 11 miles. The convexity of the arc was presented to the bar. The Long Island end rested in 10 fathoms of water and the New Jersey end 10 fathoms. The wall has to be increased or diminished in length according to the effect produced.

The originator expected to maintain a channel 31½ feet deep at mean high water and 600 feet in least width, by means of his wall, without resort to assistance of other structures or methods. He also proposed that this artificial bar would make as safe an anchorage and harbor of refuge as now inside the present bar, and to furnish a valuable facility for vessels calling at the port for orders.

By examining the map of the mouth of the Columbia river your intelligent readers can form a fair idea of what Mr. Knapp would doubtless propose to do at that locality. His wall would naturally be started about four miles off North Head, pass along the face of the bar in deep water, and stop when off the shore somewhat south of Point Adams light.

Mr. Knapp presents a method, if Oregon or other capitalists desire, to invest their money—in the bottom of the sea.

CHARLES F. POWELL.

What Easter Eggs Mean.

New York Herald.

The custom of eating eggs on Easter Sunday symbolizes the resurrection, and the practice of coloring Easter eggs red is an allusion to the blood of redemption. The custom, however, dates back to the ancient Hindoos, Jews, Persians and Egyptians, and it was then symbolical of the egg from which, according to an ancient tradition, the earth itself was hatched. It may, however, have been derived from springing up of new life in nature, which is displayed in the Easter season.

Wherein Mr. Arthur Excels.

Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Arthur is said to give better dinners than any other man who ever occupied the White House. There was once a German, who, having led a disreputable life, died, leaving the world much better off. At his funeral his wife attempted to let his memory down easy by apologetically remarking "Vell, he vas a good schmoker!"

A circumstance with a very happy outcome was lately referred to by the Brooklyn Eagle. It was told by Mr. W. A. Davenport, connected with the house of Messrs. Butler, Pitkin & Co., 476 Broadway New York, and concerned the marvelous cure of Mr. Ezra D. Clarkson, near Newark, N. J., of a terrible case of rheumatism, which other remedies had failed even to alleviate. He was on his way to a hospital when Mr. Davenport met him and induced him to try St. Jacobs Oil, with the result named.—Cleveland (O.) Practical Farmer.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

A bill was introduced by Cockrell to appoint a special commission for the promotion of commercial intercourse with such countries of South America as may be found to possess the most natural and available facilities for railway communication with each other and with the United States.

Senate passed bills to provide for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians on various reservations and extend the protection of the laws of states and territories over the Indians and for other purposes; amended on motion of Dawes by substituting for a clause exempting lands acquired by Indians from taxation for twenty-five years, a provision declaring lands allotted for that period shall be held by the United States in trust for the benefit of the allottees or their heirs.

On motion of Plumb the section appropriating one million dollars to make surveys and resurveys of reservations, provided for with a view to the allotment of lands in severalty, was amended to require that the money be repaid to the treasury out of the proceeds of the sales of such lands as may be acquired from Indians under the act.

Morgan introduced a bill for the encouragement of closer commercial relationship between the United States and South American countries. It proposes holding a convention in Washington the present year with a view to the consideration of a through line of railway along the eastern slope of the great mountain chain from Central America to Chili, and to the establishment of other facilities of communication. Adjourned.

House.

Robinson desired immediate consideration of the resolution concerning imprisoned American citizens, but the matter went over till to-morrow.

Under call of states many bills were introduced.

Buckner of Missouri offered a resolution calling on the president for all correspondence between this government and any European or other government since adjournment of the Paris monetary conference, and also requested the president to inform the house, whether any delegates to the adjourned conference had been or will be appointed by this government, and if not, the reason for such non-action on the part of the U. S. government.

By Cox of New York, a resolution as to an American peace congress and its intention for purposes of trade. The resolution declares that congress approves of the invitation and its object, and advises extension of the invitation to Canada, and that in consideration of the objects of the proposed congress there be considered and proposed a scheme for trade and reciprocity among the nations of North America and dominion of Canada with a view to harmonize these nations and the dominion of Canada in mutual relations of trade and commerce.

By Dezendorf, appropriating $1,000,000 for erection of a presidential mansion in Washington.

By Ford of Missouri, by request, for improvement of Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers and their tributaries. It authorizes the expenditure by a commission of $75,000,000.

By Humphrey of Wisconsin, from committee on judiciary, a bill to establish a reform in the system of bankruptcy. Ordered printed and recommitted.

A bill increasing by 100 men the police force of the district of Columbia, and authorizing the commissioners of the district in appointment of policemen to give preference to men honorably discharged from the volunteer force of the army, brought out a long and sharp discussion, in which comparisons between the number of democrats and republicans in the union army were made, and democrats charged republicans with waving the bloody shirt for political effect. The provision in the bill repealing a section of the revised statute, which requires no person shall be appointed policeman who has not served in the army or navy and been honorably discharged, was stricken out. Yeas 103, nays 78.

At the conclusion of a long and stormy debate, the bill passed. Yeas 117, nays 66; the negative vote being cast by democrats. Adjourned.

THE KILBOURN CASE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your issue of the 24th inst. contains an editorial on the case of Kilbourn vs. Thompson, provoked, apparently by the extravagant verdict of $100,000 which a "District of Columbia jury" has just given the plaintiff, as damages for an illegal, but probably nominal imprisonment.

Jury trial—particularly in this class of cases—presupposes the existence of a local population that has some abiding interest in society and government other than its appropriations and expenditures; and for this reason as well as others, it may yet become necessary to go beyond the "district" into the "states," for jurymen to serve in the courts sitting there.

But I think you have fallen into some errors concerning the law of the case, and do not rightly appreciate the value and importance of the decision therein, establishing the illegality of Kilbourn's imprisonment by authority of the house of representatives. And first, this decision was not made by the supreme court of the district, but by the supreme court of the United States. See Kilbourn vs. Thompson, 103 U. S., 168. It was made by a unanimous court, and the opinion was delivered by Mr. Justice Miller. It is learned, able and exhaustive of the subject and has been hailed by thoughtful people everywhere as a just and lawful limitation upon the growing tendency of the members of the house of representatives to inquire into and meddle with everybody's business except their own.

The facts were briefly these: The house passed a resolution, reciting that Jay Cooke & Co., whose affairs were then being litigated in a bankrupt court, were debtors of the United States and had an interest in the business known as "the real estate pool" in Washington, which interest had been by the trustee of the estate of said Jay Cooke & Co. recently settled with their associates in said "pool," to the loss, as was said of the creditors, including the United States, and appointing a committee to inquire into the history of said pool and settlement.

Kilbourn, who was a member of this real estate association, being called before the committee refused to produce his books or disclose its affairs, and was thereupon committed to prison.

The interest which the United States had in the matter, if any, was that of a creditor of Jay Cooke & Co., and the question of what that interest was and how it might be protected or asserted was a judicial one and beyond the power of congress to determine—even if this "real estate pool" was a rascally affair as was generally believed.

The opinion shows beyond a peradventure:—

(1). That the general power of the English parliament or either house thereof to punish for contempt—for disobedience of its orders—is not legislative, but comes from the fact that it was originally a court as well as a legislature—"the High Court of Parliament;" (2) That congress is not a court and as such has no judicial power, but that all such power in the United States government is vested in the supreme court and such inferior courts as congress may from time to time ordain and establish; and, (3) That therefore, neither congress nor either house thereof has any general power to punish for contempt, and that its power to imprison a contumacious witness is limited to enquiries concerning matters over which it has authority—as the punishment of its members for disorderly conduct or failure to attend its sessions; the determination of contested elections and the qualification of its members; and the impeachment of officers of the government—but does not extend to the private affairs of a citizen.

If the law were otherwise there would be no limit to the inquisitorial power of congress except the shortness of life, and its use or abuse would soon become intolerable.

Upon a congressional inquiry into the commerce or taxable property of Portland an examination into the private affairs of every merchant or owner of property in the city would be in order.

It isn't long since a committee of the senate sat in this city to enquire concerning charges made against a senator from this state as to the means used by him to secure his election.

The inquiry itself was legitimate enough, but the way it was perverted and abused, for the purpose, apparently, of affecting the personal and political standing of persons in this state who were in no ways included in it, is an illustration of the lawless tendency of congressional investigations and the danger of their doing injustice to individuals. D.

The Hawaiian Treaty.

New York Times.

Before the treaty was ratified the average duty paid upon Hawaiian sugar imported into this country was 2½ cents per pound, so that Spreckles would have an advantage of 2½ cents per pound over eastern refiners if the eastern refiners could meet him in San Francisco. But the cost of transportation from Louisiana or New York adds to his advantage 2 cents per pound more, making the total advantage 4½ cents. Under this shelter he has supplied the Pacific slope and enjoyed a monopoly, because no one would to any extent, send sugars which had paid duty from New York to California to compete with his. This advantage has enabled him to sell his sugars recently for 1½ cents per pound more on the Pacific coast than the same grade could be bought for in the east. Protected from competition by transportation charges and the treaty, he has compelled the people to pay for sugar more than they would be obliged to pay for eastern sugars, if the Central Pacific road would put its freight charges down to a reasonable figure. So it appears that the treaty has been of no benefit to Pacific coast consumers. For example, I am told that in 1881 California merchants were forced to pay 12½ cents for Spreckles' crushed sugars, while the same sugars were sold for 9½ cents in Denver and Kansas City, which were reached by eastern sugars, so that competition was established. In November, 1881, Spreckles's crushed sugars were 12¾ cents in San Francisco, and similar crushed sugars which had paid a duty were almost 2 cents less in New York. By inducing the Central Pacific road to establish prohibitory freight charges he has kept eastern sugars out of the Pacific market and so advanced the price of his own that he and his associates are becoming enormously wealthy. Several months ago the railroad company cut down its sugar rate one-half, but in March, probably through Spreckles' influence, they were raised again to the old figures.

No Doubt.

San Francisco Call.

An eastern journal tells us "the Chinese legation at Washington says that President Arthur's veto of the anti-Chinese immigration bill is a just and reasonable one." So well pleased was the Chinese minister with the president's action that soon after the veto he took his departure for Spain. In time, we presume, that the influence he exercised over the presidential mind left him nothing further to fear.

Umatilla republicans will commence the canvass of the county on the 4th of May.

Sheriff Martin, of Umatilla county, has collected $57,106 on taxes for the year 1881.

A smoke house belonging to Monroe Kirkland, near Weston, was burned last week together with $250 worth of bacon.

The Umatilla county court has annulled the contract with Dr. Shields for care of sick on the poor farm. Reason assigned, that he did not given them proper treatment.

Pendleton Tribune: Frank Dunn will receive $14,450 for building Jacob Frazer's new brick that is to be erected on the corner of Court and Cottonwood streets. It is to be 50x80 feet and two stories high, and when completed will be the finest building in the county, if not in eastern Oregon. The buildings that are now on the lots are being moved off, and work on the new brick will be begun at once.

Recently the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company has been filing, in the various counties of Idaho and eastern Oregon, through which the road is expected to pass, copies of a mortgage issued to secure the bonds of the company to the amount of $25,000 per mile. The Baker City Reveille describes the one filed in Baker county as [illegible] made by the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company to Frederick L. Ames, of Easton, Mass., and John F. Dillon, of New York. The bond is for a series of first mortgage bonds for $[illegible], each of the denomination of $1000, numbered from 1 upwards. It provides for the construction of the road from a point at or near Granger, Wyoming, in a northwesterly direction into Idaho; thence to Soda Springs; thence to Port Neuf river; thence to Wood river; thence along Snake river to the boundary line of Oregon and Idaho; thence to Baker City; thence to such point or points on the Columbia or Pacific ocean as the company may select.

Lake county has probably not got rid of Laws, as District Attorney Ewing, of Modoc county, contends that California has no jurisdiction in the case. He will contest the matter, if necessary, in order to prevent the expense of trial being saddled upon that county.

E. K. Anderson, of Wagner creek, will plant about 30 acres of corn this spring. Other farmers in that neighborhood will also put in considerable. Corn is coming into prominence as a standard crop in Rogue river valley, and when the railroad opens an unlimited market for bacon, there will be still more of it raised.

Humphrey & Pilkington, Blacksmiths at Looking Glass, have invented a double sickle for mowing machines, reapers, etc. This double sickle takes its motion from a double eccentric and, cuts on the shear principle, which is a great improvement on the old sickle cutting against guards. Its cutting power is twice that of the old style and hence only half the motive or horse power is required to run a machine with this sickle than the old. It can be attached to any machine.

An Oakland, Douglas county, correspondent says: There has been a great deal of talk for years about the great quantities of quicksilver existing in this section, and there has been considerable money expended, but we have "never had any proof of the pudding" until this week. A. L. Todd brought in a flask weighing 89 pounds gross. It came from his mine in Elk Head valley, where a company commenced to mine about a year ago, and constructed a furnace from their own idea, and they now think that they have it complete.

Jacksonville Sentinel: We do not remember, during a long residence in this valley, any season when a more abundant crop was promised than at present. Farmers have strained every nerve to plow and seed an extraordinarily large acreage, and it has been put in in good season, just in time to have the benefit of the late rains. All grain has now a splendid start, and nothing but a most extraordinary drought will prevent the harvesting of the largest crop ever known in Rogue river valley. The fruit crop promises exceedingly well also. In a few localities it is said that peaches have suffered a little from frost, but generally they are unharmed. Plums and apples will bear heavily, and with the prospect of a good market in the railroad camps for the ensuing two years, those of our farmers who have anything to sell should feel very comfortable next fall.

Palouse Spirit: Immigrants have been arriving daily during the week from Missouri. Those who have arrived are well pleased with the looks of our country, and say a great number from their state are on the way and will arrive soon, besides a great many who intend coming this summer.

Walla Walla Union: A gentleman who passed Friday at Prescott informs us that about one hundred men are at work there with a gravel train, grading depot grounds and preparing for the laying of side tracks, the erection of a round house, turn table, depot, shops, etc., with the intention, as he understands matters, of making that place the end of a division of the O. R. & N. Co.

Yakima Record: For some time it has been known that great dissatisfaction existed among the Piutes on the Yakima reservation. Over a year ago permission was granted to them to return to their own country, but for unexplainable reasons their departure has been constantly prevented. Their condition at present upon the reservation is by no means an enviable one, and they do not get along well with the other Indians on the reserve.

Lewiston Teller: Mr. Conrad informs us that he and his associates have purchased about 3000 head of cattle in Nez Perce and Idaho counties, Idaho, and in Garfield and Columbia counties, W. T., for driving through via Mullen road to Montana and Dakota. They will commence gathering them into one band, near Genesee, the last of this month, preparatory to driving. Other parties have purchased about the same number, which they intend to drive east.

Bishop Paddock returned to Walla Walla for a brief stay, expressing the pleasure which he has had in hearing of the prompt response of many of the citizens to the proposal to erect a new and becoming building for the girls' school. He is informed that about $4300 of the $5000 proposed is already pledged. Messrs. Sharpstein, Rees and Boyer who in the interest of Walla Walla and of education have acted as a committee, will, it is hoped, continue their agency until the full amount is received.

The Palouse Gazette says that a joint stock company with shares to the amount of $10,000 has been formed for the manufacture of Medical Lake powders, and extensive evaporating machinery will soon be placed in operation. The powders are being put up in tin boxes and sold in fifty cent and one dollar sizes. The demand is constantly increasing and the company will be hard pushed to keep up a sufficient supply. A number of marvelous cures have been effected through the use of these powders.

Camas Prairie alone is capable of raising over two million bushels of grain annually. The transportation of this grain to Lewiston at ten cents per bushel would be $200,000—equal to the cost of grading the road from Lewiston to the mouth of Lawyer's canyon.

The prospect for a good season in Weiser valley is very fair. Farmers are beginning to plow and sow spring grain. Last year a June frost came and bit the grain, and they only raised 12,000 bushels in the whole valley against 40,000 bushels the year before. They have plenty of seed and will put in a large amount this season. Common lumber is selling for $12 per 1000 feet.

Stock Exchange Matters.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The board of directors of the San Francisco grain exchange have selected the Nevada bank, Bank of California, London & San Francisco bank, limited, Anglo-Californian bank, Lazard Freres, First National, and Granger's bank as places of deposit for margins on time contracts made on exchange. The committee on classification have reported standards of classification for articles as yet placed upon the trade list by the board of directors. Wheat, barley and grain sacks will only be called. The board of directors have secured for open session an office in the Stock Exchange building. These rooms will be kept open from 9:30 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon, and are intended as a place of general rendezvous for members of the exchange and their customers, and where all persons having business and orders to fill in commodities dealt in at the exchange may meet and trade throughout the day. In this room will also be displayed special telegrams from London and Liverpool, and from cities of the eastern states that the committee on information and statistics is making preparations to have received by the exchange for benefits of its members. As soon as these preliminary preparations are completed formal calls in exchange will be inaugurated, about the 15th prox.

Anti-Chinese Matters.

The anti-Chinese convention which was called some time ago by the trades assembly met this evening in Verein Eintracht hall and the meeting was both large and representative. Over 150 delegates were in attendance. Several miners' unions from Ruby Hill, Virginia City, Gold Hill and other points in Nevada were duly represented by delegates, as well as the various labor organizations of San Francisco. Among the trades represented in this city were painters, cigar makers, tailors, saddlers, barbers, shipwrights, carpenters, butchers, pressmen, grangers, bricklayers, coopers, expressmen, molders, bookbinders, printers, and other callings. There were representatives from San Jose, Nevada county and other sections of the state. The meeting was called to order by S. R. Wilson, who stated in his opening address that the object of the convention was to devise some measure to stop the Chinese invasion and obviate if possible the evil effects of cheap labor. A committee of twenty-seven on credentials was appointed, one delegate from each organization, represented. A long address from the Knights of Labor was read, after which the convention was addressed by several speakers on the Chinese question. The committee on credentials submitted a report which occasioned much dissension, as it excluded from the convention several delegates. After discussion a portion of the report was tabled. It was finally agreed to admit temporarily all delegates until the question be thoroughly examined. Pending this the convention adjourned until to-morrow evening.

Homicide at Hill's Ferry.

HILL'S FERRY, April 24.—A shooting affray occurred here to-day which resulted in the death of one of the participants, named Hubbell. W. M. Miles came into town to do some trading, and while at the store of Simon N. Hubbell entered and, without provocation or words, struck Miles in the face with a pistol. Miles at the time of the assault was sitting on the counter. Hubbell was seized and ordered out of the store. As Miles was leaving about 15 minutes later Hubbell met him on the porch. Hubbell jumped down on the ground, went around to his team and drew his revolver, when Miles fired, hitting him in the neck and killing him instantly. The coroner's jury have returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

An Indian Massacre.

TUCSON, April 25.—A correspondent at Safford's gives an account of the recent Indian attack, as follows: Stanislaus Mestas, aged nine years, has just arrived from Stevens' sheep camp with the following story of the Indian massacre of the 18th instant. Before daylight the Indians attacked the camp whilst we were all asleep. My father and five other men attempted to get their guns but were too late. The Indians rushed in from all sides and overpowered them before a shot could be fired. The work of slaughter then began. An Indian put the muzzle of his gun against the head of one man and fired, blowing his brains against the floor and walls. I saw them kill my mother and two little brothers by beating their brains out with stones. They killed five and then tied my father and tortured him most dreadfully. He begged them to spare him but they only tortured him the more. When they were tired of torturing him one of them split his skull with an axe. An Indian squaw, wife of one of four friendly Apache sheep-herders who worked with us, saved my life by holding me behind her and begging them to spare me. When all the Mexicans were dead except me the Indians left.

The squaw who arrived with the boy says there were ninety-three warriors in the attacking party. They called themselves Chiricahuas and said that they were going straight to San Carlos agency to kill all of the whites and get more Indians to join them. They also declared that they would kill all of the inhabitants of this valley. The hostiles frequently declared that their whole desire was to kill in retaliation for the three Indians executed recently at Fort Grant. The people of the valley have gathered here.

Later news from the front is that the whole force of about three hundred Indians, including women and children, crossed the Southern Pacific track last night, going south, near Lordsburg, with the cavalry in close pursuit. The present outbreak is the most disastrous which has ever occurred in Arizona and not less than forty persons have been killed. To-night a mass meeting was held here, Gov. Tritle presided and it was determined to raise a force of volunteers to take the field for two or three months.

TAXATION OF MORTGAGES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your correspondents seem to think that the idea of taxing mortgages is a new discovery, whereas it is an old one, been tried and speedily abandoned in some of the states and has been before Oregon legislatures in the shape of bills for that purpose, the discussion of which disclosed so many objections to passage and difficulties in the way of enforcement that they were not passed.

The mortgage is nothing but a conditional deed, and it is as much an absurdity to talk of "taxing mortgages in the county where they are recorded," as to talk of taxing deeds. You can tax the property the deed or mortgage covers, or the note the latter secures, though as many difficulties have been found in the way of doing the latter that attempts to do so have been found impracticable. The amount and the party named in the mortgage would have to be the assessor's guide. Neither of them would be a safe guide. The note is oftentimes owned by other parties—having been traded or sold by the party taking it, while the amount is oftentimes more or less than appears by the record. Suppose a mortgage is given to secure $5000, payable in sums of $2500 per annum. At the end of two years it would appear by the record that $2500 was due, whereas not unlikely the payments had not been made as they became due, and the whole $5000 was unpaid. Again the notes are frequently sold and gone long distances away. I know of notes given to citizens of Umpqua and Rogue river valleys, and secured by mortgages there, now owned in Portland. Some of them have been transferred more than once, and the party to whom given does not know the present owner. To whom would the assessor tax them? Or how could he find the owner of them? Upon others payments are made from time to time. It is not the practice to note them upon the record, but to discharge the mortgage only when fully paid. To be required to make record of each payment of interest or principal would simply result in stopping the negotiating of such promissory notes. And as we become more and more a business and commercial people, it becomes more and more convenient to use such paper in business transactions. Mortgages are sometimes taken on property in more than one county to secure the same note. Thus A. owes B. $5000, for which he gives his note and mortgages upon land in Multnomah, Washington and Clackamas counties, the whole of which is not more than fair security for the $5000. Each mortgage is given to secure the whole sum, and the record in each of the three counties reads $5000. Again, A. owes B., and in the lapse of time B. becomes "shaky," and cannot pay. He has a piece of property worth not one-fourth the sum he owes. A. takes a mortgage on that to secure his note. The note is, say, for $5000. The property is worth $1000. Shall the assessor tax A. the value of the land or the amount of the note?

A mortgage tax law would necessarily exempt existing mortgages, or the courts would be compelled to set it aside on the ground of impairing the obligation of contracts. The difficulties in the way under such law would result in few new ones being taken, which would be a real benefit to the country, and about the only one resulting from such law.

The mortgage, like the deed, is not property, but the instrument describing the property, and titles thereof. It cannot be the subject of taxation. The contract it secures can be, but unless the owner of that resides in the county, it is doubtful if such county can tax it. Can the county of Yamhill tax the promissory note of the citizen of Multnomah, any more than it can tax his horse or his watch? They would all then seem to be the rightful property of the county in which they are found to tax. But one of your correspondents proposes to solve the difficulty by providing that the mortgagor shall pay the tax, and be entitled to deduct the amount from the interest or principal of his mortgagee, when he pays the same. This is unmistakably an impairment of the obligation of the contract. The contract provides that a certain sum shall be paid. The law provides that a less sum shall be received in full satisfaction.

A Patriotic Irish Lady.

The mother of Oscar Wilde differs from her son in this: She takes not an aesthetical but practical view of the American people and their free institutions. In writing to a friend she says

No Irishman returns from America loyal to monarchy. On the contrary, he laughs to scorn the old idols of the feudal system, with all its superstitions of class worship, and his opinions soon gain many followers. The American flag holds the place of honor at all popular demonstrations in Ireland, and is always greeted with enthusiastic cheers, while the flag of England is nowhere seen.

DISSATISFIED INDIANS.

The Klickitats and Yakimas Protest against the Police System—Unsuccessful Attempt to Break up a "Tamanmas" Meeting.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

YAKIMA CITY, April 21.

For some time past the Piutes and other non-church going Indians have been congregating on the Toppish and indulging in their own peculiar religious worship, viz., Tamanmas and Pum Pum dances, etc. This, it seems, displeased the agent, and he first called on Jo Stwire, chief of the Klickitats, and then on Eneas, chief of the Yakimas, to go to the camp and break up these meetings. They replied that it was not their business to interfere with the sports or religious worship of other Indians who were not of the same belief as themselves. The agent then sent seven of his Indian police force under Pe-Ell to stop the proceedings or arrest and bring the offending Indians to the agency, saying that he would imprison them. In accordance with the agent's orders, the police went to the camp and attempted to disperse the meeting. This interference the Indians looked upon as an encroachment on their rights and they refused to submit, when a general fight ensued. An eye witness describes the scene as a "skookum fight," in which men, women and children all took a hand and clubs seemed to be trumps. The seven policemen with their cavalry swords at their sides were completely demoralized.

The recent conflict has made great dissatisfaction among all the Indians on the reservation. The pum-pum Indians believe they are being tyrannized over, while the police and other Indians think the agent should find some more efficient method of controlling his subjects than by setting their heads up for targets.

The reservation chiefs Eneas, Jo Stwire and Pe Ell complain that the system of Indian police now in vogue on this reserve is productive of more harm than good; and consequently they ask the whites to assist them in having the system abolished. They say the agent uses them as cats paws, and when they get into trouble with the Indians on the reservation, in making arrests, etc., that he does not sustain them, except when it suits his convenience, but on the contrary tells the offending parties that he gave no orders for their arrest. This conduct on the part of the agent as a matter of course creates bad blood and ill feeling between the police and other Indians. These chiefs also complain that the government allows the members of the police force $12 per month, whereas the agent pays them only $5.

During the past week quite a number of the leading Indians have been in the city laying their grievances before the whites. They want to send some papers to Washington asking that the police system be abolished, and they also want the information as to whether or not they have the right to sell any of their stock which they have purchased with their own money. They claim J. H. Wilbur forbids them selling their horses to any one except himself.

Here's Meanness.

New York World.

A Vermont watchmaker has enriched the world with "a clock which acts out the assassination of President Garfield." The trains run into the depot, Guiteau fires his shot the president is carried off, a clergyman enters reading the funeral service, and finally the assassin is worked off with punctuality and dispatch. "Every man to his liking"—but we humbly submit, in the history of historical accuracy, that any clock which leaves out of the representation the harmony raging in the republican camp ever since the presidential prize was drawn in the "lottery of assassination" is unworthy of Connecticut, not to say Vermont. And yet Vaucanson, of Vermont, may have done his best. It is not the easiest thing in the world to represent by clockwork movements a Kilkenny cat fight interrupted by a nitro-glycerine explosion.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena (Cal.) Sherry, Port, Amber, Riesling and Claret wines, as also his vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Sheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AP[illegible] 18[illegible]

WRONG END FIRST.

There is abroad a spirit of [illegible] opposition to Portland which from [illegible] to [illegible] prevent a just view from being taken of [illegible] proposed for the material advancement of the country. We are not surprised that such [illegible] sition under the circumstances is in some degree a natural result. Portland has a marked pre-eminence over every other town in the northwest. This pre-eminence is steadily increasing. Yet other places have just ambition to grow and become great. Some of them are making good progress and their prospects are of a most encouraging character. Still the business of the northwest is chiefly drawn to Portland as a center, the tendency is more and more that way and necessarily so, and Portland is censured by other localities for a condition of things that exists through the operation of laws that give pre-eminence the world over to certain points over other points and establish centers of business and trade where on the whole the country can be best accommodated. True it is asserted that Portland has not a situation of this kind. But the fact that Portland is the largest town of the northwest is due to natural causes and no other. A city has grown here because on the whole here is the best place for a city. The site is due to natural selection, and the growth of Portland follows the same law as the growth of New York.

Nevertheless some who do not clearly see this take it as an offence that Portland grows at all or even exists. Hence any suggestion that emanates from Portland concerning the improvement or development of the country is in many quarters regarded with suspicion or met by objection. Portland, it is supposed has a special interest in it, which interest is held to be antagonistic to that of the rest of the country. This feeling constantly manifests itself. But it is not surprising. It is in fact just what the situation would lead the observer to expect.

This journal has frequently expressed the opinion that the scheme of improvement for the Columbia river, now being carried on, is not a judicious one. It is moving wrong end first. The entrance of the river ought first to be improved; then points above. But here we are met by the statement that this view of the case is due to Portland's selfishness. Is it? The case would be precisely the same if Portland did not exist.

The government is spending millions at the Cascades. To carry on the work in progress there, other points are and have for years been neglected. From seven to ten years must yet elapse before the locks are completed. When they are completed the river is not open, the barrier is set back only a few miles further. Railroads, for a quarter of a century at least must be the dependence for transportation. Few now living will see the upper Columbia open to free navigation. But were it open now small use would the locks be unless the entrance of the river admitted the easy passage of large vessels. Do people on the upper Columbia expect to ship the products of their country through the locks, and then pay for transporting them by rail to Puget Sound? If those products are going by rail to Puget Sound they will be loaded on the cars at the original place of shipment,—not hauled to the upper river on cars, loaded upon boats, transported to the lower river, and there transferred to cars again for their destination.

This view leaves Portland out entirely. The reasons in support of it are just as strong as if Portland had no existence. Improvement of the Columbia river is proceeding wrong end first. For this reason it will fail to provide accommodation for the country.

FOOLISH OBJECTIONS.

The objections made to the Logan bill by some very good people are extremely absurd. They are in favor of taxing whisky as a restrictive measure. They are in favor of national aid to popular education. But they contend that it would be degrading to the moral forces of society to make use of the whisky tax for educational purposes. One of these objectors formulates the idea as follows

> Although the measure of Senator Logan would not make the whisky tax the sole dependence of public schools, but would only make it so much in addition to state funds, still the principle is the same. If popular education is made to depend in any degree on the manufacture of intoxicating drinks, the moral effect on the country cannot be good. If the youth of the land know that the facilities provided for their education in the schools come from such a source, it will inspire no respect for the government that provided those facilities, nor will it tend to the elevation, the ennobling of our citizenship.

We venture to say that the educated "youth of the land" understand this question a good deal better than the people who are opposing the Logan bill on moral grounds. Every "youth of the land" ought to know that $75,000,000, or about one-fourth of the entire revenues of the national government, are derived from taxes on domestic and imported liquors of various descriptions. He also knows that, as a consequence, one-fourth of the government expenditures is provided by a tax on alcoholic liquor in its different forms. It is perfectly plain, therefore, that if Senator Blair's educational bill, or Representative Sherwin's proposition, were to become a law, or if $10,000,000 or any other sum were appropriated by the general government annually for educational purposes, one-fourth of the money thus employed would necessarily be the product of the revenues yielded by the tax on liquors. Now, is it any more moral or degrading in principle to use the whole of the whisky tax for educational purposes than it is to use one-fourth of it in that way? The true objection to the Logan bill is that it provides so great a sum that there is danger of running into extreme and foolish theories of popular education.

PREPARING A HARD ROAD TO TRAVEL.

The men who were connected with the late robber administration of this state have never ceased to vouch for each other's honesty. Equally industrious they have been and still are in declaring that they gave the state a most economical and correct administration. Grover vouches for Chadwick, Gilfry, Noltner and the rest; Gilfry for Grover, Noltner Chadwick and the rest, and so on round the whole circle of these admirers of each other who swindled and robbed the state for the space of six or eight years, violated the constitution by plunging the state into debt ten times in excess of the constitutional limit and made it necessary to raise the state tax from 4 mills to 7 mills to replace the sums stolen and squandered under their manipulation. The "expert" who took the money of the state as salary to serve it, and then aided in robbing the state of enormous sums through approval of false measurement of the printing, has again begun to praise the honesty of himself and associates in regulation style. In his view of the matter the profligate corrupt and extravagant administration, whose robberies made the debt and increased the taxes to pay it, was the superb one while the administration that has paid the debt made by the robbers and reduced the taxes is the one that no citizen can truly admire. Fortunately for common sense and public honesty there is dissent from this opinion. Now, that the [illegible] cratic managers [illegible] making [illegible] of a robber administration the main feature of their canvass their candidates are likely to have a hard road to travel.

The house has passed a bill which provides for the acceptance and ratification of an agreement with the Shoshone and Bannock Indians for the sale of a portion of their reservation in Idaho territory required for the use of the Utah & Northern railroad. Besides ratifying the agreement with the Indians it places to their credit the sum of $6000 in the treasury and grants to the railroad company the right of way over the lands relinquished to the United States upon the condition that the company shall pay to the United States the said sum of $[illegible] within [illegible] days of the taking effect of the act. It also provides that the company shall be liable for damages [illegible] the United States or to the Indians that may be sustained by the acts of the company or its agents [illegible]. Although the agreement [illegible] place $6000 [illegible] the Indians [illegible] money [illegible] paid by the railroad company [illegible] this transaction [illegible] any actual outlay [illegible].

In August next Alabama will elect [illegible] ticket and a legislature which will elect a United States senator to succeed [illegible] J. T. Morgan. A convention of [illegible] independents and [illegible] will meet on the 10th May. A Washington special says that Alabama liberals now in that city have assurances that their leader Wm. M. Lowe who is contesting a seat in the house of representatives will [illegible] Lowe [illegible] will be nominated for governor in May and [illegible] At the same time a legislature will be elected which will send Lowe to the senate in 1883. The liberal movement in Alabama is represented to be growing very rapidly. The best elements of both parties are joining it. It is well organized and is already a power. With proper support from the administration which they will doubtless have the liberals promise to take the state from the hands of the bourbons and hold it indefinitely.

In western Pennsylvania and West Virginia an extensive revival of Mormonism is reported. But while the propagators of the faith acknowledge a belief in the book of Mormon as an inspired work and in Joseph Smith as a prophet of God they disclaim all connection with the Utah polygamists and deny that polygamy was sanctioned either by Joseph Smith or the book of Mormon. The organization has churches in Westmoreland Fayette Washington and Allegheny counties Pennsylvania and at several places in West Virginia. It was in Washington county Pa that Solomon Spaulding original author of the book of Mormon lived. It was written by him as a romance somewhat in imitation of the style of the old testament scriptures.

The Mackey-Dibble contested seat case in the house of representatives from the second district of South Carolina, shows that at the election in 1880 in forty five precincts the tally lists showed that 27 07[illegible] persons voted while the ballot boxes showed 33,326 ballots. Of course this surplus of votes over voters was in the interest of the Bourbon candidate and because of this fraud and others like it he obtained his certificate and claimed his seat. Probably he will not be able to keep it.

An unauthorized reprint of Longfellow's prose romance, "Hyperion," has appeared in New York. The copyright is the property of certain Boston publishers and the poet's heirs who have brought an action against the New York publishers for infringement. At the same time the authorized publishers have put on the market an edition of "Hyperion" at 15 cents a copy. There would seem to be no occasion to get out a "pirated" edition when the book may be had so cheap.

The contest for the democratic nomination for governor in New York this year will probably lie between the Hon R P Flower and the Hon Abram S Hewitt, both members of the present house of representatives. Hewitt had his future in 1876, but didn't know how to use it. Flower has not had his yet and he wants it. The latter is young, active has a talented "barrel," and Abram will have to stand aside.

Sergeant Mason's wife is in great luck. Of the fund raised for her benefit $7000 has been paid her, and it is still growing. She has been offered a situation in a Chicago store at $1500 a year. By the same firm that offered her husband a place and salary but declines. She says she is going to buy a farm, and after her husband gets out of jail she will make him settle down on it and stay there. Sensible woman.

The Virginia readjusters, who have just declared themselves as supporters of President Arthur's administration, are confident they can elect eight of the ten representatives in the next congress from that state. If they are not over-sanguine this will be a good send off for republican control of the next house.

Now that the Corwin has been started for the Arctic ocean to rescue the people of the Rodgers who had gone to rescue the people of the Jeannette the government will doubtless see the propriety of getting a vessel ready with in the shortest possible time to rescue the people of the Corwin.

The London World is good enough to call the attention of its readers to the fact that American girls do not join the ranks of the polygamists but that the demand is fed chiefly from the most ignorant districts of England Wales and Scandinavia.

Shipherd is in a bad box. Ex Secretary Blaine and W H Hurlbut editor of the New York World have shown in their testimony what a mere adventurer and liar he is. Hurlbut is a brother of the late minister to Peru.

California has begun to send butter by the car load to New York. A consignment which has arrived is reported to be in good order and of good quality.

Col. Fred. A. Conkling, brother of the Great Bowed Down, is on the list of possible candidates for the democratic gubernatorial nomination next fall.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes and in spite of all the surgical aid I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse until at length I became helplessly blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was under the treatment of two occulists of considerable prominence. One was a professor of diseases of the eye and I remained under his care one month but continuing to get worse I changed to another so-called specialist, [illegible] I was only jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, [illegible] street San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first and I continued to improve day by day until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. Insert this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee [illegible] with all his knowledge to [illegible] similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyes cured as I have been through the mill and speak from sad experience. m11daw HENRY HARRISON

AN UNFOUNDED CHARGE.—Mr. A. Bieber, who for some time past has been assistant postmaster at Lakeview, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Lamson yesterday, charged with robbing the mail. He was accused of having opened a letter addressed to Sol Abraham of Roseburg, and to have taken checks amounting to $1350 from it. Wm. Stevens, a merchant of Lakeview, testified to having asked Bieber to register the letter. Mr. Abraham stated that he had received the letter and that although it said the sender enclosed $1350, only one check of $100 accompanied it. The strangest part of the whole affair is that the checks which Stevens sent in the letter are the same ones found in Andy Campbell's possession, when arrested in Oroville, Cal. and which he said he had found on the street in Roseburg. A hotel register at that place shows that Campbell was there at the time, and it is very probable that he did find them, and that Mr. Abraham accidentally dropped them. The testimony did not show Bieber to have been an accomplice or even an acquaintance of Campbell, and he was in consequence discharged. Mr. Bieber has lived in Lakeview for a long time and has a high reputation for honesty and general good character. His neighbors and friends—so we are assured by Mr. C. B. Watson—deem his arrest an outrage.

RATTLING RUNAWAY.—Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock one of the west side hand-cars played a most ungentlemanly trick upon four Chinese section hands and three small boys, who are all members of different Sunday schools. The car was standing on the track at the head of Fourth street, the Chinamen being at work a few yards from it, when the three good little boys came along and climbed upon it. Out of pure deviltment the car then started down the hill, and despite the agonizing entreaties of its Chinese directors and the efforts of the boys, who were steadily working the handles, the car continued its journey. Upon arriving at Jefferson street its speed was slackened, allowing the boys to jump off, which they had no sooner done than feeling its freedom it again started. The heavy down grade favored its speed, and as a bystander remarked, "greased lightning was nowhere" compared with its velocity. When at Morrison street the car "spread itself," the arms which move up and down apparently taking the form of a huge fly wheel making about 5000 revolutions a minute. Finally growing tired of the sport, when at the S curve at A street the car jumped into the street, landing bottom up, where it lay as lifeless as a piece of stone. The Sunday school boys have not since been heard from.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Monday evening, just before dark, the roadmaster of the O. R. & N. Co.'s Cascade division, with others, rode to Bonneville (the new station on the Oregon side opposite the lower Cascades) on a three-wheeled hand-car and went into the telegraph office. While they were inside Charles Hecker, one of the company's foremen, and Patrick Cull, concluded to steal a ride and started up the road. They did not understand the management of the "velocipede," and when Eagle creek bridge was reached the vehicle jumped the track precipitating the men to the rocks forty feet below. Hecker, who was frightfully bruised, died within 20 minutes. The body was brought to Portland by the steamer Traveler yesterday, and conveyed to Ewry & Garnold's establishment. He was a German, about 35 years old, unmarried, and had many acquaintances here. Cull received many bruises, which it is thought will prove fatal. He is being cared for by the company's surgeon at the Cascades. The funeral of Hecker will take place tomorrow.

HORSE THIEF CAPTURED.—Sheriff F. P. Hogan of Douglas county, arrived here yesterday from the Upper Cascades, having in charge Lewis Biggs, a horse thief. About three weeks ago Biggs hired a saddle horse from Frank Aiken's livery stable at Roseburg, ostensibly to go to Wilbur. He sent a note to Mr. Aiken, from Wilbur, saying that he would keep the horse four or five days. This was done to gain time. Biggs then started down the valley and reached the neighborhood of Sweet Home, Linn county. He attempted to cross the Cascade mountains, but the trails and road were blocked by snow. Mr. Hogan got on his trail and after eight days' effort, succeeded in making the capture. He will leave for Roseburg with his prisoner to-day.

THIEF—GUILTY PARTY CAPTURED.—About 8 o'clock yesterday morning a horse and buggy of D. L. June was stolen from the corner of First and Stark streets. He had tied the horse on the corner, and upon returning from an office in the building found the outfit missing. He filed information in Justice Petrain's court, but in the absence of Constable Grant the matter was turned over to the police authorities. A description of a man who was seen driving the horse down street was given to Capt. Gritzmacher, who caught the culprit at the upper end of town, recovering the team with him. The man gave his name as John Jones, and was committed to the county jail in default of $300 bail.

IMMIGRANTS FROM ILLINOIS.—A Bloomington, Ill. paper says: "To-day the party which has been making up here will leave for Oregon. The party is composed of 25 members, among whom are C. E Fell and family, James B. Sargent and family, Prof George Hastings and wife; L. W. Burkhart, A. J Payne and N. A. Ringler, of Arrowsmith; C. S Messer and Mr. Pumphey, Heyworth; E. H. Hammatt, Farmer City; A. J. Marlin, Hartsburg, Logan county, and others. All of the party expect to make their future home in Oregon, and some of them have already lived there a year or two." The party are on the steamship Columbia, and will arrive here to-day.

PARTITION OF THE DAVENPORT ESTATE.—Three of the brothers (heirs) of the late Dr. Davenport, one of whom is a resident of Paris, France, one of Van Dieman's Land, and the other of San Francisco, are now visiting this city, and have since their arrival selected Messrs. J. L. Atkinson, J. P. O. Lownsdale and C. E. Sitton to appraise and make partition of the large estate left by their brother. The appraisers began their view yesterday. The real estate in this city will approximate in value $250,000.

JIM TURK FINED.—Jim Turk, who was arrested Monday night for beating James Casey, was arraigned in the police court yesterday. He plead guilty to a charge of assault and battery and was fined $15 and costs. He stated on the stand that he was compelled to use force to rescue a man from Casey whom the latter was attempting to shanghai. He also said that fines were getting so heavy now that he would have to give up the pleasure of whipping his friends.

BACK TO THE OLD HOME.—Henry Bacon is at it again. He has just returned from Astoria, where he said the climate was delightful until the authorities began to enforce the vag law, and then it got too warm for him. He announced his arrival last night by beating Henry Lieby, who preferred a charge of assault and battery against him, and he now awaits trial in his accustomed quarters.

O. & C. ELECTION.—The directors of the O. & C. railroad yesterday elected the following officers: Henry Villard, president; Richard Koehler, of Portland, vice-president; J. N. Dolph, of Portland, second vice-president; Geo. H. Andrews, of Portland, secretary and treasurer; H. H. Wyndale, of New York, assistant secretary; Anthony I. Thomas, of New York, assistant treasurer.

EXAMINATION OF THE "EVANGEL."—Hon. Chas. C. Bemis, of San Francisco supervising inspector of hulls and boilers for this district, arrived from Seattle yesterday and leaves for home by this morning's steamer. It is understood that his mission to the Sound was the examination of the new steamer Evangel. Mr. Bemis declines to make public his opinion of the craft.

ELECTED PRESIDENT.—A telegram to THE OREGONIAN from New York last night announces that Gov. Wm. A. Newell, of Washington territory, has been elected president of the Seattle, Puget Sound & Gray's Harbor railroad and transportation company, now about to build a railroad along the coast of western Washington.

SHIPPING DIRECTORY.—David and W. G. Steel have just issued a complete express, telegraph and postoffice directory of Oregon and Washington. It gives not only the name of every hamlet, but its nearest postoffice, and distance from the nearest railroad station or steamboat landing.

SUIT TO RECOVER ATTORNEY'S FEES.—George W. Yocum yesterday brought suit against Sarah Bemer, in the state circuit court, to recover $200 which he claims is due him for professional services while acting as her attorney.

THE NEXT ATTRACTION.—Commencing Wednesday of next week the Standard minstrels, and the "Muldoon picnic" party, from Emerson's theater, San Francisco, will open at New Market for one week.

MEETING.—The Mite Society of St. Stephen's chapel will meet this day at 2 o'clock at the house of Mrs. John Cran, corner of Seventh and Yamhill streets. Punctual attendance is requested.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The British steamer Meath, in which the last lot of Chinamen were brought to Portland, cleared for San Francisco yesterday. She takes no freight of any consequence.

ADMINISTRATOR APPOINTED.—The will of Mrs. Mary Ripstein was yesterday admitted to probate in the county court, and Henry S. Herriman appointed administrator of her estate.

RESIDENCE BURGLARIZED.

At twenty minutes past 2 o'clock this morning a telephone message was received at the police station from the residence of David C. Tuthill corner Eighth and Salmon sts. The speaker said the house had been robbed and a lot of silverware taken. An officer was immediately dispatched to the house, but on account of the lateness of the hour, the development could not be waited for.

A HOTEL MAN'S REPLY.

PORTLAND, April 2 .

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In your "growls" of this morning I notice that an individual who signs himself "Delegate" complains that he was compelled to "sleep in a hallway on a cot or go to a so-called second class house." Had "Delegate" applied to any of the first class hotels of this city he would not have been subject to sleeping in a hallway,—providing he was willing to pay for good accommodations. "Delegate" should not confound first class hotels with cheap lodging houses, as he has done in his statement that he had to go to a chop house for his meals.

There are several different grades of hotels and lodging houses and "Delegate" should post himself on what constitutes them before he again shows his ignorance in public print.

You, Mr. Editor, also add by way of explanation that "hotel facilities have not grown in proportion to Portland's wonderful advance." This assertion is as unwarranted as if a similar statement were made in regard to the press of Portland. Portland is cosmopolitan in every respect, a man can live here for $3 50 a day or $3 50 a week, in conformity with his ideas and his purse; but it is no more to be expected that hotel men can give $3 50 a day accommodation for 50c than to expect a newspaper man to give a column space for the usual price paid for an inch advertisement.

HOTEL MAN.

THE PORTLAND BOOT AND SHOE MANUFACTORY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

SIR—I thankfully appreciate your kindly mention to-day of the fact that myself and Mr. Terence Rodgers, as successors to the firm of Leinenweber & Co., 110½ Front street, have taken formal possession of the works and will continue the industry under the firm name and style of the Portland Boot and Shoe Manufactory, but I fear that your final remarks that Mr. Leinenweber will continue the tannery at Astoria, may be construed to imply that myself and Mr. Rodgers will use the leather made by him at the Hemlock Tannery. Such is not the case. We shall only use the best imported and domestic stock in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and long as we do so we are sanguine of success. Mr. Rodgers has been long and favorably known to the boot and shoe trade as a square dealing honest maker, and I am willing to stake my reputation as certain of success when the trade fully and emphatically understand that we are masters of the situation under the new regime. Very respectfully,

E. O. CORSON.

P. S.—Our advertisement, soon to appear, will be headed, a reward of $2000 to any person who will detect shoddy in our goods. E. O. C.

BURGLARY AT McMINNVILLE.

McMINNVILLE, April 25.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

William Hill's jewelry store at this place was entered by burglars last night and about a dozen watches that had been left for repairs were stolen. The loss to Mr. Hill will be about $200. The watches are of but small value. The entrance was effected by boring away the door panel above and below the lock. The burglars were perhaps frightened away by a dog in the adjoining store, as valuable jewelry in the show-cases was not taken. No one suspected.

MISS WILDROSE.

From "Our Continent."

Miss Wildrose was very young when she made her earliest literary venture. It was in a long poem, of such a scope and nature that at first no one was disposed to believe it could be the work of a girl not yet twenty. But she made no affectation of disguising herself under silence or with a pseudonym, and the rector of the parish had heard portions of "The Song of the Morning Stars" before its completion; and when this was known, and the first poem was followed by another and yet another kindred to it, the doubters were silenced, and Miss Wildrose took her place among the poets—on the bench with Milton thought her family and friends; on the humblest footstool of all Miss Wildrose herself thought. She was content to be the lowest there; only to be in the glorious company of all was quite a delight for her.

Of course the work was criticised. This great critic counted the number of Saxon derivatives on a page, and honored or dishonored her according to his sum total, and that one weighed her rhymes in the hair balance under glass that is sensitive to the sound of the falling snowflake, and the other found a real mare's nest of delight in a lame foot of the blank verse. But the people liked the little books, and the popular acknowledgment was such that Miss Wildrose's head might have been turned if her art had been less a matter of moment with her, or if just at that time she had not met Raphael Stuart and loved him almost on the meeting.

She had always lived in the village. He came to her like a being not only of the outside world, but of the world of art in which her dreams and fancies lay. For he was a painter of more than common promise if not yet of absolute performance, and if poor as the traditional painter is, yet with too much love of the colors and harmonies and shapes of nature that belong to all who can see them to sigh for those heavier luxuries that belong only to the few. In time we would like them too, but just now he has youth, art and love. What more could he wish?

Like most young artists, Europe was his goal, if ever he could sell enough sketches to warrant his departure. And now, since coming to the village, he had doubled the distance between him and this goal, for how was he going without Miss Wildrose? and in order to take a wife with him he would have to make twice as many sales as he had counted on before. Miss Wildrose's little income from her books would not go a great way in their mutual purse, for the sale of the best liked verses is not a miraculous draught, and she had really worn out various copies of her books in the service of borrowers and buyers. Moreover, as Mrs. Stuart she could hardly make her way with the same expenseless simplicity as when only Miss Wildrose. Plainly old age was likely to creep upon them both before they could venture to let their lives become one and make their vision of those old streets and galleries, those summer seas and glacier tops, a thing of real life.

This, however, did not seem so sad a thing to Miss Wildrose as it did to Raphael. She could go on singing her songs in the little village as long as her heart and soul were in sympathy with the great strain that nature sings, and here was Raphael all day and every day beside her. But it troubled her at length a little to see his unrest. Perhaps she caught the unrest herself. Her work felt the trouble, and for a time she feared she had lost the secret word of her power; she began to be as eager as he for the impossible.

"Oh, want my bullock opened," he cried, searching the blue sky with his bluer eyes. "I want to see for myself how Raphael turned that line, how Veronese blended those tints, how Rembrandt flung that shadow. I want to know what they mean by saying Turner made color do the work of drawing. I want to see the great masters of to-day in their studios or afield. I want to see Venice before some accursed steamboat rips up her looking-glasses."

"I want to see the Euganean hills," said Miss Wildrose, casting her glance dreamily along the flat country where never a hill was seen.

"And I want my home, my wife, my hearth," he said, and then for a little time the lovers' happiness seemed only a high value of their art.

"If you could only be sent to Europe," she said at last. "If you could be consul in some foreign town in France or Italy, or in the east, or in the north of Africa."

"If I could go abroad and be paid for it," he said, laughing. "Ah, yes, if I could have the moon for my easel!"

"But it is not impossible," she answered, with a brightening smile. "Now I consider it, not at all impossible. I really think it may be done, sweet. Oh, Raphael, if it only should!"

"[illegible] are building castles and the scaffolding is in the clouds," he said.

"Listen then. Isn't the new secretary of state a man of letters? Hand-in-glove with publishers and authors? A patron of painters too?"

"A regular Maecenas! My darling, your wits are as bright as [illegible]. Take me for a clod! I see it all now you have illuminated it. Yes, yes, a good case ought to be made out between my credentials and yours."

"Oh, I shouldn't want to figure in it" she murmured shrinkingly.

"Then you shall not. My little wife shall stay on the dark side of the moon till she wakes up and finds herself in a gondola some sunset, with the moon in the lagoons."

And it was not a month before armed with all sufficient papers as he deemed, Raphael Stuart was waiting in the secretary's ante-room so confident of success that he was already canvassing in his own mind the merits of the opposing ocean lines, the best place for his wife's state-room, and whether or not he would be able to get any sketch of weltering waters or bits of sail or shipping or sea-birds on the way.

He had plenty of time to think it over as the hours went by before he was called into the great man's presence. The consulship to Venice! Ah, that was a pity! He should be very sorry to be obliged to refuse a request of his friend the writer of the letter Mr. Stuart had sent in. He had heard of Mr. Stuart; he had seen some of his work and indeed had purchased a little scene, 'The Spent Wave,' if Mr. Stuart remembered it. And as Raphael's color rose something about him seemed to interest the secretary more, for he read the letter again and asked him for his other papers. "They are very strong," he said, "and it is very unfortunate. I have all but promised the consulship to Mr. Tierney, who has just left me. Perhaps you saw him pass out; he looks like an Italian brigand and there seems something fitting and appropriate in designating him for the post," said the secretary laughing, for he knew how to fill disagreeable pauses with light words. "Well, well," he said, "I shall regret it very much if I cannot be of service to you. Depend upon it I shall try. I am sorry to have so far committed myself. Perhaps something can be done although I am doubtful. Are you in the city long? Where are you staying? Can you dine with me to-night? My wife and daughters will be pleased. A few pleasant people. Sharp seven. Good morning." And before Raphael recovered himself the plausible secretary had bowed him out and admitted the next, and he was standing with a dazed air among the ruins of his hopes, the face of the Italian brigand, whom he now remembered to have seen, dominating the ruins like that of an evil genius.

But he was not of the sort easily cast down. After a couple of hours he was on his feet again, full of pluck and purpose, investigating the art of the capitol, and a few minutes before seven he was at the secretary's door, admitted by the stately black porters, making his best bow to Mrs. Secretary, and if not conscious that Miss Secretary was regarding him with an auspicious eye, quite conscious that she looked like one of the sweetest and best-natured young women in the world and one to whom, before the dinner was announced [illegible] he led her out, he felt like confiding both his joys and sorrows.

What troubled him was that before he had been five minutes in the drawing-room he had seen the Italian brigand talking with a famous general and looking as though he were taking his points so as to be ready for the next ambush, and that now he was placed on the other side of the table but a few seats distant.

The dinner went on quite as usual, when suddenly there was a lull in the conversation which had been turned by the Secretary to the subject of modern literature, and Mr. Tierney's voice was heard quite distinctly saying to the Secretary as he bent slightly forward. "O, I assure you, my dear sir, there is no one better qualified than I to speak of 'The Song of the Morning Stars,' since I wrote it, as I may say." And then as Raphael tossed back his hair like one preparing to offer battle, he added: "That is to say, Miss Wildrose and I wrote it together, and rewrote it. I think there is not a single stanza in which our joint work is not to be found. The idea of the opening chorus is her own and the work mine. I myself suggested the refrain of the Wandering Stars and she worked that up."

"And the Cloud of Comets?" asked the secretary.

"Oh, that is mine, too; and so was the earth's recitative in the Region of Meteors, all mine. But her delicate touches gave it a grace not within the power of a masculine pen. Miss Wildrose's grace—"

"I beg pardon. Are you speaking of Miss Wildrose?" said the Secretary's daughter, as Raphael sat aghast and utterly incapable of using her name in this scene.

"Of Miss Wildrose?" said Mr. Tierney. "Oh, certainly."

"And do you really know her?"

"Like a sister," said the brigand, "Better than a sister, I might add, since we have worked for our name and our fame together."

"How I should like to see her! Do you suppose she will ever come to Washington?"

"Ah, it is unlikely. The poet is too sensitive for contact with practical things, you know."

"Then you must tell me of her. Is she pretty? Is she pleasing?"

"Pleasing, yes. I—I can hardly speak of her so openly, you must believe me. She is perhaps one's idea of Sappho—"

"Yes. Large?"

"Superb moulding."

"Blue eyes?"

"As violets."

"Then I hope her hair is black."

"As black as night."

"Every one has such a different idea of Sappho," said Miss Secretary. "Now to me Sappho looks like Story's Cleopatra. And, by the way, papa, do you know that Mr. Gould's 'Ghost of Hamlet's Father' is to be seen in Boston? I could take the journey there to see it! He is the Shelley of sculptors." And then the secretary took up the tale, and his daughter bent her head over her little satin "menu" and whispered to Raphael, "I thought you said you were engaged to marry Miss Wildrose?"

"So I did."

"Why then didn't you announce yourself just now?"

"Drag her name before a dinner table?"

"I believe in you!" she said earnestly.

"Have you her picture? Please let me see it?"

She looked at it and passed it to her next neighbor. "It looks more like a New England maiden than like a queen's daughter," she said as she did so.

"Oh, is this the new princess?" cried the lady in whose hands it came directly afterward, and it presently reached the secretary. It was a miniature that Raphael himself had painted.

"Eyes dark as pansies in the front of March," said the secretary. "Those close braids of fair hair contrast well. Quite a petite young woman. You spoke of seeing the princess when you were last abroad, Mr. Tierney. This is quite unlike the picture in the illustrated newspapers. Tell me if it is a good likeness." And the little picture passed from hand to hand, under glance by glance, to Mr. Tierney.

"I really am unable to answer," said the brigand. "They are such a swarm. This must be a new one, for I don't recollect seeing her. No, the face is quite unfamiliar. I have never seen it."

"Is it a good likeness, Mr. Stuart?" asked the secretary's daughter, in a voice like a bell, regardless as to whether she violated any sanctities of hospitality or not.

"It is called so," said Raphael.

"It is the picture of Miss Wildrose," cried the young lady in the same clear treble, as her mother, to avoid the fiasco she saw coming, rose from the table.

And if there is any happiness in sea-sickness Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Stuart, on their way to Venice a fortnight from that time, were most supremely happy.

Why so Few Marriages?

New York Mail and Express.

In a recent article, Mrs. Lillie Devereaux Blake incidentally makes the assertion that the present dearth of marriages is the result of the licentiousness of young men. Has not Mrs. Blake placed the cart before the horse in this matter? Is not the increase of social vice the result of causes which make marriage difficult if not impossible to a large number of young men? Few young women have the knowledge or the inclination requisite for the proper performance of the domestic duties in the home of a man of refinement who is poor, and a great number of young men do not marry because matrimony is a luxury beyond their income. In Germany it is fashionable to live simply, and there is no reproach in being poor. In France, economy is a cardinal virtue; and American extravagance is regarded with contempt. In Austria, the most elegant ladies disdain to be found ignorant of the routine domestic duties. Even in England there are not the foolish extravagance and disgraceful ignorance of household work which are so common among American young women. Mrs. Blake is by profession a preacher, and we give her a new text for her sermon against the decline of matrimony.

Should Mrs. Scoville be appointed guardian of the estate and person of Guiteau on the ground of the latter's alleged insanity, it is suggested that some other crank at once be appointed to look after the person and estate of Mrs. Scoville.

MINING NEWS.

Jacksonville Times.

The recent rains and cool weather have served to keep up the supply of water.

The miners of Willow Springs district are cleaning up. So are many throughout the county.

The hydraulic mines are all running on full time, most of them being supplied with good heads of water.

A good run is being made at Keaton & Klippel's claim on Poorman's creek. Other diggings in that vicinity are paying well, all things considered.

Wimer & Simmons, of Josephine county, are running their hydraulic claim night and day. They do not expect to make a cleanup before the last of August.

Bear creek will be opened this season, just below the sulphur springs, by Messrs. Rummel & Bagley, of Chimney Rock precinct. First class results are expected, as adjacent diggings paid very well.

Another cleanup was made at the claim of Chas. E. Chappel & Co. on Star gulch last week, which resulted satisfactorily. Over 30 ounces of gold was obtained. Their reservoir is now being used to good advantage.

L. A. Heberlie returned from Josephine county last week. He informs us that the claim of Bybee, Newman & Co., although operated only two-thirds of a month, yielded over $1800. The breaking of the ditch and the unfavorable winter prevented a better result.

Wm. and Sylvester Patterson were in town last Saturday for the purpose of making arrangements for procuring hydraulic pipe, etc., for their mines on Grouse creek, a tributary of Beaver creek. They have good prospects and expect their enterprise to pay them very well.

Judge Hanna and Henry Klippel, Esq., who are members of the Squaw Lake Ditch Co., went up to the diggings last week, returning Sunday. They report everything in first-class order. A fine head of water is running through the ditch, with which substantial piping is being done.

LONDON, April 25.—Silver bullion, English standard, 925 fine, per fine ounce, 52½.

EASTERN FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The freight market is unchanged except perhaps that there is a trifle more light from offering. Ships, however, are loading slowly, and it is doubtful whether there will be any further departures this month, although with favorable weather the Columbia might close. Rates remain steady at last quotations and are thought to be rather high. There is no doubt a reduction would increase shipments, but prices paid for ships will not admit of a reduction. Tonnage is still scarce. The only charters are the ship Palmyra for San Francisco, and the bark Kiota for Portland, both at this port. The steamer hence April 21st, had in addition to a large lot of railroad material, 100 tons [illegible]; also for China, 1153 bales sheeting and 500 cases milk. The bark Arcturus finished loading at Boston this afternoon and will sail Wednesday.

NEW YORK, April 25.—General markets are dull. Wheat, for cash, is 1c@2c lower without leading to any considerable export demand, which continues light with the foreign market showing a tendency to ease off.

Barley—Quiet.

Lard—Dull and lower.

Pork—Steady.

Rio Coffee—Extremely dull and nominal.

Refined Sugar—Moderate demand and easier.

Foreign Fruit—Quiet and firm except prunes, which are offered at 5¼c by the bar el. At this quotation it is believed to be sold for speculation purposes.

Hides—Quiet and firm.

Turpentine—Quiet again and lower, closing at 54 @55 in barrels.

Petroleum—In cases fairly active.

Crop Reports.

LACROSSE, Wis., April 24.—In reply to numerous inquiries sent out by parties in this city in the counties of southern Minnesota, eastern Dakota and northern Iowa, covering a tract of country [illegible] in width and extending 400 miles west of the Mississippi, the following is learned regarding the prospects of crops, the amount of old wheat in farmers' hands, etc: Owing to heavy fall rains the amount of plowing is over twenty per cent. of that done in the fall. The spring has been backward and the amount of spring plowing very small compared with former years, and the condition of the ground is now very bad for farm work. But very few points reported that wheat seeding had been attempted, and that only on ridges or high ground. The amount of acreage sown to wheat will be less than former years. Bad crops of the past four years have forced farmers to try their hands at something else. But little if any wheat remains in farmers' hands, and none of that is milling wheat. No wheat is reported in warehouses along different routes in the territory. Reports from western Wisconsin state that more plowing has been done but the ground is very wet and it will take several days of continued fine weather before seeding can be done. Considerable more wheat was sown in this section of Wisconsin than ever before.

Gold and Stock Reports.

HUB PUNCH,

TO TOP OFF A DINNER,

May be Drank Clear, as a Cordial.

For a dinner thoroughly appointed, the good old way was to wash down the last triumphs of the feast with copious libations of rich, rare and curious old Port and Golden Sherry; but "HUB PUNCH" has added a new sensation to the epicure. Its delicacy, aroma, flavor, and delicious, but gentle effects, proclaim it the nectar fit for the gods banqueting on Olympus.

Mix HUB PUNCH with Ice Water, Cold Tea, Lemonade, or Soda. It is unanimously pronounced unrivalled.

TESTIMONIALS.

"A sip is like nectar."—Boston Courier.

"Delicious beyond description."—Boston Transcript.

"Added to the good things of the table it enlarges the pleasures of life and encourages good fellowship and good nature if rightly enjoyed."—Springfield Republican.

"It is a great trouble to make Punch, and many people lack the savoir faire to brew it. Hub Punch is indispensable wherever known."—Spirit of the Times, N.Y.

"The increasing popularity of Hub Punch is pleasant testimony to your success in using the best and purest components." PARK & TILFORD, New York.

"Our success in selling Hub Punch has surprised us, we having sold within the past three months a larger quantity than we anticipated selling in twelve." SMITH & VANDERBEEK, New York and Chicago.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure all," it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

ROCKWOOD.

Dark bay; right fore foot and left hind foot white. Foaled May 17, 1876. Sired by Fleetwood, son of Happy Medium, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Alexander's Abdallah; 2d dam by Grey Messenger; 3d dam by Pilate Whip; 4th dam by Hambletonian in running horses. Fleetwood's dam by New York Black Hawk. Happy Medium, dam Princess. This admirably fine bred stallion is making the season at Trotter's Home, corner Sixth and I streets, in this city. Terms—Insurance $50, payable when mare is in foal. For further information address REDMOND & SMITH, Portland.

DUROC PRINCE.

This elegantly bred young stallion is making the season at the Trotting Home, corner Sixth and I streets, in this city. He is 4 years old, sired by Messenger Duroc, dam by Trussell's Hambletonian, and he traces direct to Abdallah, the fountainhead of American trotters, through each of his four grandparents, as Messenger Duroc is a son of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, son of Abdallah, and the dam of Messenger Duroc was Satinet, Rae's Abdallah Chief, son of Abdallah; while Trussell's Hambletonian was by the Welling horse, grandson of Abdallah and the dam of Lavinia was Rysdyk's Abdallah, by Abdallah. This is indeed most remarkable breeding, and cannot fail to be appreciated. Duroc Prince is a black, and large; and in a few weeks trial showed a 2:40 gait. He stands at $25 for insurance, money due when the mare proves in foal. For further information address REDMOND & SMITH, corner Sixth and I Sts., Portland, Or.

SEALED TENDERS FOR

RAILROAD TIES

WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL 12 M., MAY 15, 1882, for furnishing two hundred and thirty-two thousand (232,000) cross-ties along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Emory and Burrard Inlet, viz:

Twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Port Moody station, or at a point on the line of said railway between Port Moody and Pitt River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Pitt River, or between Pitt River and Kanaka Creek.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Kanaka Creek, or between Kanaka Creek and Stave River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Stave River, or between Stave River and Harzle River.

Other forty thousand (40,000) thereof at Harzle River, or between Harzle River and Harrison River.

Other twenty-seven thousand (27,000) thereof at Harrison River, or between Harrison River and the lower end of Maria Slough.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the lower end of Maria Slough, or between said lower end of Maria Slough and Tunnel "C" of said railway, which Tunnel is about 15 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other ten thousand (10,000) thereof at said Tunnel "C," or between said Tunnel "C" and Tunnel "D," which latter tunnel is about 11 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other fifteen thousand (15,000) thereof at Tunnel "D" aforesaid, or between said Tunnel "D" and Tunnel "F" on said railway.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the said Tunnel "F," or between said Tunnel "F" and Emory's Bar, or at Emory's Bar.

All such sleepers or cross-ties shall be delivered alongside the railway and within fifty feet of the center line of the track, and shall be piled up so as not to interfere with the work of construction.

The bottom of the pile shall be as nearly as practicable on a level with the grade of the railway track, and the said pile shall be so made as to permit of ready inspection and counting; and wherever such piles shall be made near water lines, bodies of water or rivers the same shall be placed in such locality that the bottom of the pile shall in all events be above the line of high water.

It will be necessary to deliver at least fifteen thousand (15,000) acceptable ties per month from date of entering into contract until completion of same.

Ties must be smoothly hewed or sawed, free from all score hacks, and chopped or sawed square at both ends, eight feet long, flatted on two opposite sides to a uniform thickness of six inches, the flatted surface being not less than six inches on either side at the small end, and when sawed they shall be eight inches in width and six inches in depth.

All ties must be of sound timber, full size, and acceptable by the chief engineer of said railway, or they will not be paid for.

Ten per cent. will be reserved upon payment of accepted ties until completion of contract, and ten thousand dollars ($10,000) approved security required before signing contract. The security or securities to be given must be described in the tender. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, Yale, B. C., and endorsed "Tenders for Ties on Contract No. 2[illegible]"
